Anson County's Unemployment Rate 5.4% in March, Down Half a Percent

Anson County's unemployment rate for March was 5.4%, half a percentage point lower than February's 5.9%. Statewide the unemployment rate in March was 4.7%. Anson's total labor force in March was 10,771. Of that number 10,186 were employed and 585 were unemployed. In February the total labor force was 10,934, with 10,290 employed and 644 unemployed. Unemployment rates (not seasonally adjusted) decreased in 98 of North Carolina's counties in March, increased in one, and remained unchanged in one. Hyde County had the highest unemployment rate at 12.3 percent, while Buncombe County had the lowest at 3.7 percent. All fifteen of the state's metro areas experienced rate decreases. Among the metro areas, Rocky Mount at 6.6 percent had the highest rate and Asheville had the lowest rate at 3.9 percent. The March not seasonally adjusted statewide rate was 4.7 percent. When compared to the same month last year, not seasonally adjusted unemployment rates decreased in 97 counties, increased in one, and remained unchanged in two. All 15 metro areas experienced rate decreases over the year. The number of workers employed statewide (not seasonally adjusted) increased in March by 43,695 to 4,712,676, while those unemployed decreased 14,771 to 231,828. ## No 2017 Tax Free Weekend in NC

North Carolina no longer offers a tax-free weekend
Sales tax holidays are designated periods when selected products are exempt from state (and sometimes local) sales taxes. The state of North Carolina repealed its tax-free weekend event when Governor Pat McCrory signed legislation in 2013 that also reduced corporate and personal income taxes. As a result, the state held no tax-free events during 2014, 2015 and 2016. The move was unpopular with businesses and shoppers, and a bill calling for its return was introduced in April 2016, but it did not pass. This means that there will be no sales tax-free shopping in the state in 2017. As a result, some businesses in North Carolina began hosting a weekend of additional savings during the first week of August to draw shoppers to their stores. These nearby states all have tax-exempt weekends scheduled for 2017: Alabama, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina and Tennessee.

History of Sales Tax Holidays New York was the first state to hold a sales tax holiday in 1997 in an attempt to limit "border" shopping, where New York residents traveled to nearby states to shop to take advantage of those states' sales tax rates, which were much lower than New York's rates. New York has since abandoned the tax-free holiday. In 2017 seventeen states have sales tax holidays planned. In most cases they are timed to coincide with back-to-school shopping, with many clothing and footwear products exempt from sales tax for a weekend or week. Some states include savings on energy efficient appliances and severe weather preparedness supplies in their tax-free weekends. States that have withdrawn from tax holidays and states that have not participated claim the sales tax holidays do not promote economic growth or increase consumer purchases; they just shift the timing of the purchases, while putting a financial strain on the state's income. Although tax holidays are popular with businesses, politicians and shoppers, statistics argue they do little to help the low income shoppers who need the tax relief the most.

• Half of all lifetime cases of mental illness begin by age 14 and three quarters by age 24. Early identification and intervention improve outcomes for children, before these conditions become far more serious, more costly and difficult to treat.
• 13% of youth aged 8-15 live with mental illness severe enough to cause significant impairment in their day-to-day lives. This figure jumps to 21% in youth aged 13-18.
If left untreated, mental illness can lead to school failure, substance abuse, or even suicide. Join Sandhills Center Family Support Program and NAMI-NC in promoting Mental Health Awareness Month in May. Their goal is to raise community awareness that childhood mental illness is real, serious, and treatable. By knowing the signs and symptoms, we can help North Carolina's children access treatment and have a brighter future. For immediate help, call Sandhills Center at 1-800-256-2452 or NAMI-NC at 1-800-451-9682.
