New Nonprofit Organization in Honor of the Late Major Charlie Little

This is a release from Charlie's Angels Non-profit: Major Charlie Little, a beloved member of the Anson community, dedicated 30 years of his life to the Anson County Sheriff's Office and served in other ways within his community. With his unwavering commitment, he became a prominent figure in the hearts of many. Even after his passing nearly two years ago, the outpouring of love and respect for Major Little continues to reverberate through our community. In honor of his remarkable legacy, his wife, children, and grandchildren have established Charlie's Angels Non-profit, an organization dedicated to fostering a sense of love, support, and community among individuals.

Charlie's Angels Non-profit is driven by a vision to empower our youth with knowledge and support, nurturing them into the leaders of tomorrow. Among our core missions, we are dedicated to supporting local schools through various initiatives, including back-to-school drives and engaging events.

Additionally, we are proud to offer scholarships to high school students, enabling them to pursue their academic aspirations. Through these endeavors we aspire to inspire others to join us in making a positive impact on society by giving back to our community.

The first fundraising event will be held on Saturday, September 30 at the Lockhart-Taylor Center in Wadesboro. The Legacy of Love Concert will be a gospel singing held in Charlie Little's honor and to support the organization. The singing will feature gospel quartet groups like Flossie Boyd-Johnson & Favor, The McDuffies, The Sweet Singing Harmonettes, The Holy Voices, Dashon Crowder & Co., The Massey Sisters and Flat Rock Gospel Choir. Tickets are $15 in advance and $20 at the door.

Please come out and support such a great cause! Contact Lisa Little at 980-278-0527 for information about purchasing tickets, vendor spots and for sponsorship opportunities.

Anson Employee Tommy Staton Among NCDOT Equipment Operators Proceeding to Regional Competition

Several heavy equipment operators for the N.C. Department of Transportation are headed to a regional competition this fall in West Virginia to show off their expertise. Tommy Staton, Anson Equipment/Division 10, is among the best in the state who are going.

They were among the best in a statewide competition held last month in Raleigh for the department's the Equipment Operator Training Conference, nicknamed the state rodeo.

"This annual event is a great opportunity for our heavy equipment operators to sharpen their skills and learn from one another," said Robin Barfield, NCDOT's Director of Safety and Risk Management. "We take safety and staff training very seriously."

The NCDOT employees competed in seven categories that promote work zone safety, employee morale and teamwork. Winners from each category are now advancing to the regional event for the Southeast, set for Sept. 26-28, in Beckley, West Virginia.

During the state rodeo, the employees of Division 6 garnered the highest team score, placing first as the overall division winner. A trophy will be presented next week to the Division 6 staff in Fayetteville, where the trophy – and some friendly bragging rights – will remain for a year until the next state rodeo.

Division 6 covers Bladen, Columbus, Cumberland, Harnett and Robeson counties.

"I'm really proud of the hard work and professionalism our team demonstrated at the state conference," Division 6 Engineer Drew Cox said. "They maneuver heavy equipment every day. It's a job that requires precision and dedication to operate in a safe manner."
