SC Jazz Festival in Cheraw - Sidewalk Chalk Competition

2017 South Carolina Jazz Festival annual Sidewalk Chalk Competition is seeking Anson teams

The Cheraw Arts Commission is looking for teams to participate in the Sidewalk Chalk Competition on Saturday, October 21 at this year's South Carolina Jazz Festival. We will be remembering jazz legend and Cheraw native Dizzy Gillespie during his 100th birthday. Returning to this year's festival will be "Madonnari-Southern Style."

This sidewalk chalk competition is based on the 16th century Italian art form called "Madonnari" or Italian Street Painting. In Italy street painters or chalk artists were named I Madonnari as their creations were of the Madonna. The artists were employed to create art for the city cathedrals. Upon completion of their work, the street painters replicated the church paintings onto the pavement especially during holy days and festivals. Visitors would toss coins upon approval of the street paintings.

For the last several years teams have created masterpieces during the South Carolina Jazz Festival. Teams of at least 4 people will once again display their Street Painting skills on the sidewalk located at the Theatre on the Green. Monetary prizes will be awarded to the winning teams. Teams can consist of families, friends, organizations, schools, churches, or businesses.

Contact the Cheraw Arts Commission 843.537.8420 x 12 for registration forms and information. Deadline to register is October 13. For additional information about the 2017 South Carolina Jazz Festival (October 19-22) visit www.scjazzfestival.com. This year's Sidewalk Chalk Competition is sponsored by Hospice of Chesterfield County.
