Remembering days gone by...

Can you believe the new Plymouth police car? With a hand-lettered signs on both front doors - signs with no plastic, no vinyl, and at a cost of $7? No trim, just white letters!

This period of time was soon after World War II, as things were slowly getting back to normal. You could buy a tank of gasoline for less than forty cents per gallon. In fact, this new police car was only about $2,000!

So you can see that "things" had begun to enjoy peace again - coffee was less than a dollar per pound, a can of beans was something like two for 25¢, a meal at Edna's Tea Room was only about one dollar.

In 1961 the Wadesboro City Hall was moved from Martin Street, where it had been next door to Rufus Meachum Furniture and Leavitt Funeral Home, to where, for many years, had been the bus station. Many changes have come about these many years, even the business places all over town.

And...about the "new police car" above...as this was the time soon after the close of World War II, I had the pleasure of lettering that car with the orders, "Nothing fancy, not even trim (shadow)." I can understand the request because the car sure was not "loaded with extras." Nowadays the vinyl decorations on the new cars cost more than "the whole Plymouth!" Anyway, "that's the way it was."

Thanks fellows for a job well done, Chief Smith, Shorty Huntley, Barnum Shaver, Lex Burch, and the "whole bunch" who are "watching"...from the other side!! Thanks, Ed
