Remembering.....
By Ed McBride

Brown Creek Soil & Water Conservation

In The Express Newspaper a few days ago, as well as this issue, J. Edgar Jordan has had "Highway History" articles about Dr. Hugh Bennett, "Father of soil conservation" - This one and others have special interest to me because I can remember some of "these happenings."

I do remember seeing Dr. Hugh Bennett on occasion many years back, I even remember his brother Dr. Joe Bennett who was, for several years, a medical doctor here in Wadesboro - and was my "first doctor experience" in about 1928 - "a green apple stomach ache!!"

Back to Dr. Hugh - Did you know that our Nation's First soil and water conservation district was Brown Creek - that there was a 50 year celebration here in Anson County in 1987 - that the festivities were at the "then" new Anson Junior High School building on US Highway 74 West, that I had the pleasure to design and paint the cloth banners like the one above and that the early days of soil conservation, the "terraces" through the fields sometimes didn't leave enough space to do much farming!

Dr. Hugh Bennett served his country well - however, we need to think "more conservation today!!"

Some of the kinfolks of Dr. Bennett still live here - along with "some of our many memories gone by!"
