Protecting our Water, Air, Land & Lives

DANGERS OF "FRACKING"

Hydraulic Fracturing or "Fracking" is a dangerous method used to extract natural gas from Shale Rock. This is achieved by drilling vertically down through the earth about 7,000 feet, then drilling horizontally for long distances while injecting millions of gallons of fresh water mixed with sand and Toxic Chemicals.

Effects on Water

Each time a well is "fracked" it can take up to 10 million gallons of fresh water. (We already suffer from droughts in the summer.)
The flowback water is contaminated with arsenic, barium, strontium and radium226. This water will NEVER be available for drinking, cooking, bathing and watering gardens, lawns or animals.

Effects on Air

Fracking produces uncontrolled air emissions from the evaporative pits, and the drilling itself.
The public's health will be at risk from breathing in pollutants in the air.

Effects on Land

Increased seismic activity has been recorded in areas of "Fracking."
North Carolina regulatory agencies have already admitted that fracking can cause EARTHQUAKES!

Right now this practice is banned in North Carolina, but we are getting reports that the General Assembly wants to overturn the ban this SPRING!

YOU CAN HELP STOP THEM NOW!

Attend our County Commissioners meeting on Tuesday, March 6, 2012, at 6 p.m.
