Shop – Agriculture – Home Economics

Some few remember when the Ansonville High School received the General Smith gift back in the 1930's, for Shop Class, Agriculture Class and Home Economics. The actual use of the Home Economics house was restored, and the Shop Building was built all new. It had classrooms on the street level floor and the shop woodworking machines and tools downstairs on a concrete floor. I do know that it had a concrete floor for sure because part of our summer time was involved using a "star drill and heavy hammer," hand drilling all the holes to bolt down the saws, drill press, jointer and other power tools.

The boys of 1939 class had the pleasure and joy of a "real shop class" - the first at Ansonville. However, my personal interest in woodworking still exists...as the clock picture above shows. Training I learned and used still "hangs on." I built the clock many years ago with a new Herschede movement - and Ansonville pine lumber that Daddy had cut for a horse trough (not a clock!). Some years passed, he got a substitute horse trough, and gave me the pretty pine lumber for "my new clock" on September 20, 1958.

Mrs. Sandy and Mr. Alex McLeod a Hit at Wadesboro Primary School

Students in Mrs. Rivers' third grade class at Wadesboro Primary School are fortunate to have Sandy and Alex McLeod as volunteer tutor buddies. The McLeod's give of their time each week to meet with students and offer help in reading and math.

Mrs. Sandy (as the students call her) brought dental hygiene kits for each student as a part of Dental Health Month. Mrs. Sandy told the students a lot of valuable information about dental health and keeping teeth and mouths clean.
