Remembering.....
By Ed McBride

Celebrating July 4th, 1777...and Now!

Well, Monday will be July 4th again - so many "happenings" that we remember. (Ed even remembers being at the first celebration with "bells," bonfires, fireworks and the like on July 2, 1777. Allen) Although the first celebration was held on July 2nd, the date was officially changed to July 4th in 1778.

in our "part of the world" I have some early remembrances such as McSwain Park on Rocky River. The families would carry well-filled baskets of food, the young would play in the shallow, rocky edge of the river. Even years later some few would display an American flag on the front porch.

The real highlight of the celebration was, in my remembering, the food! You know, good ol' fried chicken and home-grown tomato sandwiches.

In later years people would have fireworks about dark - nothing as elaborate as "today's productions."

Many changes, many happenings - so much to remember. Ed
