Mrs. Dottie Thigpen Batten

Mrs. Dottie Thigpen Batten, 67, formerly of Wadesboro and Concord, died at home after an extended illness on October 6, 2014, surrounded by her loving family.

A Celebration of Life was held on Friday, October 10, 2014, at First United Methodist Church in Wadesboro. Interment followed in Anson Memorial Park.

Dottie was the daughter of Wilton and Pheatress Thigpen of Fair Bluff, NC. Her father and mother preceded Dottie in death in 2004 and 2013, respectively. Dottie is survived by her devoted husband of 44 years, Robert D. Batten; son Rob Batten; brothers, F. Ray Thigpen (Donna) of Whiteville, NC and Wilton A. Thigpen (Lynda) of Wilmington; sister Deborah Thigpen Suttles (Bill) of Fair Bluff; and numerous nephews, nieces, grandnephews and grand-nieces. Dottie attended public schools in Columbus She attended County. Vardell Hall in Red Springs, NC and graduated from Campbell University in Buies Creek, NC in 1969 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Home Economics and Biology. taught Home Economics and Biology throughout the 1970s at Bowman Senior High School in Wadesboro. In the early 1980s, she served as Director of the Anson County Schools Child Nutrition programs. After a family move from Wadesboro in 1984, she was a Supervisor in the Cabarrus and Gaston County Schools Child Nutrition programs and later served as Director of the Child Nutrition programs in Lincoln County Schools.

Dottie was a wonderful daughter, sister, wife, mother and aunt. She loved all things beautiful, and excelled at interior decorating, flower gardening, and needlepoint. She was a wonderful cook and her recipes. especially Christmas ones, have become legendary to the many family members and friends who passed her way. Her Christmas fudge, in particular, was her trademark.

She loved cruising to the Caribbean, Alaska and Hawaii with her beloved husband and an array of family members. She always had a special interest in the menus onboard ship, as well as the way and manner in which the food was prepared and served. She loved to dress for the formal nights onboard and relished the opportunity to shake the captain's hand. She also loved to shop in the numerous ports of call she visited. Her son, Rob was the "apple of her eye" and she was always quick to talk about him and took pride in showing his picture. Dottie loved her family dearly and enjoyed traveling to her childhood home in Fair Bluff to visit with her Mother, Daddy and siblings. She was a Christian lady who practiced her beliefs in a daily fashion and, until her illness, attended church regularly. She and her family were formerly members of First United Methodist Church in Wadesboro, where she was active in the Enthusiast's Circle and Handbell Choir.

Dottie was loved by all who knew her. Her radiant smile and cheerful demeanor lit up the room when she entered, and she was a beautiful lady even in the depths of her illness. She will surely be missed.

The family would like to express appreciation to everyone who supported Dottie and her family during her lengthy illness, with a special thanks to Dr. Henry Traylor, Jr. and his nurses at Whiteville Medical Associates; the staff of Ardsley Medical Group in Concord; Dr. Michelle Clancy of Hampstead, NC; Jennifer Riker and staff of Adult Day Services in Wilmington; the staff of the Coltrane L.I.F.E. Center in Concord and the wonderful, loving caregivers who assisted the family during her illness.

In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to the Alzheimer's Association, 225 N. Michigan Ave., Fl. 17, Chicago, IL 60601-7633 or to First United Methodist Church, 118 E. Morgan Street, Wadesboro, NC 28170.

and Recommendations for North Carolina

Blaze Orange Requirements

The N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission's Home From The Hunt safety campaign is reminding hunters to follow blaze orange requirements and making safety recommendations to others who spend time outdoors. In North Carolina hunters are required to wear a cap, hat or an outer garment in blaze orange that is visible from all sides when hunting bear, feral hogs, deer, rabbit, squirrel, grouse, pheasant or quail with a firearm. Hunters also are required to wear blaze orange while hunting with a bow on Sunday during the black powder and gun seasons. "Wearing blaze orange is an easy and effective step for safety," said Travis Casper, the state Hunter Education Program coordinator. "Blaze orange, also known as hunter orange, isn't a color found in nature, making it instantly recognizable as a human presence. It is instantly recognizable and signals caution to the viewer. Going a step farther, in low-light conditions hunters should consider using a flashlight when changing locations.' The Home From The Hunt campaign recommends everyone wear blaze orange when outdoors in areas shared with hunters. Blaze orange clothing stands out against an outdoor background and studies have proven it increases visibility of the wearer in lowlight situations. Blaze orange also can be helpful in locating someone lost or injured.
