THE EXPRESS • November 9, 2022 • Page 2 Four Anson Schools Closed Wednesday and Thursday Due to High Rates of Illness

The Anson County School System put out this release on their Facebook page on November 8: Due to high rates of student and staff illness, Anson High, Anson Middle, Peachland-Polkton Elementary and Ansonville Elementary School buildings will be closed Wednesday, November 9 and Thursday, November 10 (Friday, November 11 is a holiday for students and staff). Students at these schools will transition to a remote learning day. Hard copy work packets with instructions for completing assignments will be given to students before leaving school today (Tuesday).

While these schools are closed, we will use this time to deep clean and prepare for our students to return on Monday, November 14. To further ensure that we are not spreading illness, there will be no athletic or extra-curricular activities for these schools. We ask everyone to help by washing your hands frequently, covering your mouth when you cough, and do not send your child to school if they are running a fever or are sick. This helps to prevent the spread of germs and will assist us in getting our students back in school.

Please stay healthy, and we look forward to seeing our students back at these schools on Monday, November 14. This closing is only for Anson High, Anson Middle, Peachland-Polkton Elementary and Ansonville Elementary Schools!

CSX Railroad Crossings to be Reworked in Anson

CSX Railroad has a surfacing gang starting on December 5 in Lilesville that will be working on 15 railroad crossings in Anson County going towards Monroe. This job is slotted for 2 weeks, December 5 through 16. Each crossing will be closed from 2 to 4 days pending weather, equipment and any unforeseen circumstances.

A Google map has been created that shows all of the crossings that will be worked. A link to the map is on The Express website, www.TheExpressNewspaper.com. If you click on the location it shows you an approximate closure date.

What is a surfacing gang? Regular maintenance of track includes life cycle replacement of rails, turnouts, and ties, plus ballast maintenance. After all of these, and at other regular intervals the track must be "surfaced." Surfacing consists of two steps: lifting the track to the desired level, then tamping or compacting the ballast into the void created by lifting the tie. Similarly, the track must be shifted into the desired alignment to fully restore the track geometry.

In current practice, one machine will do all of these, lift the track to the desired profile, shift it to the desired alignment, then tamp the ballast around the ties. These machines are computer controlled and (in good hands) can plot and tamp to very exact curves and perfect tangents, with spiral curves connecting each segment. These machines are called "tampers" but they are complete surfacing machines. They replaced tremendous amounts of back-breaking manual labor. (But to this day two or three people can and do manually jack up a low joint and tamp it even without any machine help and restore the track surface, but not a mile at a time.)
